Weather

The Great Caucasus Range is a natural divider protecting South Caucasus from invasion of cold air masses from the north. The climate in Western Georgia is milder, subtropical due to the influence of Black Sea. Average winter and summer temperatures make 5 and 22 centigrade, respectively. Annual amount of precipitation makes 1,000-2,800 mm.

The climate in Eastern Georgia is little harsher, passing from subtropical to continental. Average winter and summer temperatures make 2-4 and 20-24 centigrade, respectively. Annual amount of precipitation makes 300-600 mm. Usually winter in west Georgia is Milder than in East Georgia. There is snow from end on November till end of March in the mountains of the Great and Lesser Caucasus. Summer is hot in Georgia, but there is cool in the Mountains especially in the evening.
